The Federal Communications Commission has approved Apple's application for experimental license to test 5G technology.

